-08-14 The Tension in Your Relationship When a person is the main breadwinner in a relationship, they frequently feel resentful and angry when the woman is not supporting the man, as well as when she takes some of his money. It takes a lot of pressure and strain off of him, and a lot of time, to earn money to support his family. In contrast, when the man is the main breadwinner, a lot of resentment and anger builds up when the woman does take some of his money or support. Many men would rather find another job than take less money at home, or to feel that they are "second best." I have witnessed couples where the man is earning many, many times what the woman is earning, and she has never been comfortable. At the same time, I have seen women who have felt they had to work several jobs to support their man and his friends. This tension occurs for many reasons, but the most important is in the area of money. The Bible tells us in 1 Corinthians 3:16-17, "Now this I say, that every one of you saith, I am of Paul; and I of Apollos; and I of Cephas; and I of Christ." These are the four key men whom the apostle Paul used in his ministry. He used one person who had a lot to say in a statement that was being interpreted for the congregation, while the other three were there to interpret what that person was saying. God said in Ephesians 5:25, "And have no fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness, but rather expose them." In other words, let God's light shine through us, rather than let it be filtered through us. The anointing that we are given from God's Word is to speak what we have seen and heard (John 3:2, 14). It is not for us to put our understanding of God's Word in place of the Spirit, which is able to interpret the Bible to people. The four men that Paul spoke of were all key in the ministry of the gospel. When there is a gap in our relationships, such as what is going on with your relationship, we are to use one person to talk to, and another person to interpret. It is not the person's message or opinion that matters so much as it is what God's Word says. He did not name the apostle to make them all equal. What I 82157476af
